suming most of the summer, might become necessary. By moving out I would put the army in better condition for pursuit, and would at least, by the destruction of the Danville road, retard the concentration of the two scanies of Lee and Johnston, and cause the summyte abandon much material that he might otherwise save. I therefore determined not to delay the movement ordered.

THE FUY FORES.

Therefore possession of the Five Forks, but the enemy, after the affair with the Fifth corps, reinforced the robol cavalry, defending that point with infantry, and forced him back towards Dinviddia Court House. Here General Skeridan displayed good generalities. Instead of retreating with his whole command on the main army to sell the story of superior forces encountered, he deployed his cavalry on foot, leaving only mounted mon enough to take charge of the horses. This compalled the ensum to deploy over a vast extent of woods and broken country, and made his progress slow.

An ACT OF REMOISM.

General Ord selvanced from Burkesville toward Farmville, sending two regiments of infantry and a squadron of cavalry, under Fremville, sending two regiments of infantry and a squadron of cavalry, under Fremville, which it heroically attacked and detained until General Read was killed and his small force overpowered. This caused a delay is the enemy's movements, and anabled General Ort to get well up with the remainder of his force, on meeting which the enemy immediately intreached himself.

THE RED.

A force sufficient to insure a cast triumph over the enemy under Kirby Smith, west of the Mississippi, was immediately put in motion for Texas, and Maj. Gen. Sheridan designated for its immediate command; but on the 18th day of May, and before they reached their destination, Gen. Kirby Smith surrendered his entire command to Maj. Gen. Sheridan designation of the sent of the repel President and Vice President; and the bed faith was exhibited of first disbanding most of his army and permitting an indiscriminate plunder of public property. Ow

Owing to the report that many of those lately in arms against the Government had taken refuge upon the soil of Mexico, carrying with them arms rightfully belonging to the United States, which had been surrento the United States, which had the some dered to us by agreement—among them some of the leaders who had surrendered in persor and the disturbed condition of affairs or Grande, the orders for troops to p he Rio Grande, the orders for troops to proceed to Texas were not changed.

PRAISE OF ALL THE ARMINS.

With the following paragraph Gen. Grant closes his report:

It has been my fortune to see the armies of both the West and East fight battles, and from what I have seen I know there is no difference in their fighting qualities. All that it was possible for men to do in battle they have done. The western armies commenced that the hattles in the Mississippi valley, and received the final surrender of the remnant of the principal army opposed to them in North Carolina. The armies of the East commenced their battles on the river from which the Army of the Potoman derived its name, and received the surrender of their old antecepies at Accounting Court house. same, and received the surrender of their old antagenist at Appemattox Court-house, Virginia. The splendid achievements of each have nationalized our victories, removed all sectional jealousies, (of which we have unfortunately experienced too much,) and the cause of orimination and recrimination that night have followed had either section failed night have followed had either section failed in its duty.

All have a proud record, and all sections can well congratulate themselves and each other for having done their full share in restoring the supremacy of the law over every foot of territory belonging to the United States. Let them hope for perperual peace and harmony with that enemy whose manhood, however mistakes the cause, drew forth such herculean deeds of valor.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

U. S. Gaany, Lieutenant General.
